Solving Rational Equations. A rational equation is an equation containing at least one rational expression. Rational expressions typically contain a variable in the denominator. For this reason, we will take care to ensure that the denominator is not 0 by making note of restrictions and checking our solutions.

Solving Rational Equations. A rational equation is a type of equation where it involves at least one rational expression, a fancy name for a fraction. The best approach to address this type of equation is to eliminate all the denominators using the idea of LCD (least common denominator). By doing so, the leftover equation to deal with is usually either linear or quadratic.

Solving Rational Inequalities. The key approach in solving rational inequalities relies on finding the critical values of the rational expression which divide the number line into distinct open intervals. The critical values are simply the zeros of both the numerator and the denominator. You must remember that the zeros of the denominator make the rational expression undefined, so they must be immediately disregarded or excluded as a possible solution.
